Start something that looks, sounds, and feels like us.

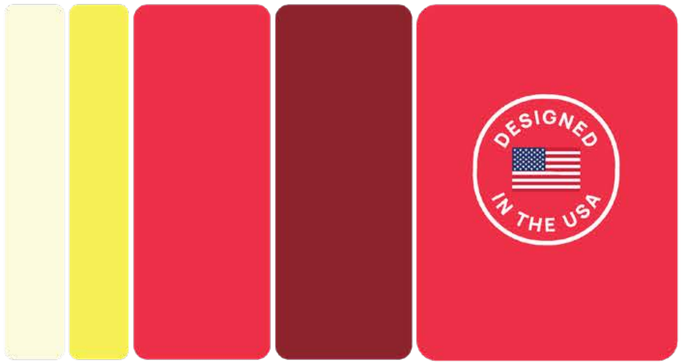
This document sets out the basic guidelines for the successful implementation of our brand identity.

Our objective is to provide a flexible framework of practical guidelines that ensure global consistency, whilst providing scope for creativity and initiative.

A strong brand is one of the most valuable assets an organization owns — it can mean the difference between a customer choosing us, or one of our competitors. It is the visual and written expression of everything we are, and everything we promise to deliver to our customers.

To make it truly impactful it needs to be applied consistently. Everyone has a part to play in doing this and bring our brand to life — this guide is here to help you.

This is our Visual brand overview—built with the elements we have created to bring the Pyle USA visual identity to life.



OUR BRAND

In this section, we outline the building blocks of our brand, including who we are, what we stand for, what sets us apart, our personality, why we choose the words we use and how we've decided to show up in the world.

01

In this section, we outline the building blocks of our brand, including who we are, why we exist, what sets us apart, our purpose, vision and mission.

What is Pyle?	Who we are and what we do

Our Proposition	Our unique offering: how we describe ourselves to others

Get into it.™

Pyle USA is a 45-year-old American brand built for hobbyists, newcomers, and everyday creators. We make functional gear affordable and accessible, whether you're gifting a beginner, tinkering on a garage project, or outfitting your next boat party.

We're known for our big catalog, simple usability, and pricing that lets people try something new without overthinking it. Our heritage is real. So are the amps, woofers, guitars, and gadgets that help people turn inspiration into action.

Affordable tools to turn passions into play.

Pyle USA delivers the most durable products in the entry-level category—across audio, electronics, home, and lifestyle. We're the go-to for people who want to start something, try something, gift something… without breaking the bank.

In this section, we outline the building blocks of our brand, including who we are, why we exist, what sets us apart, our purpose, vision and mission.

Our Purpose	Why we exist: the big idea behind our brand and why we do what we do
Our Vision	What we want to achieve: our north star, our long-term goal and aspiration for the future
Our Mission	How we are going to do it: an action-orientated statement outlining how we are going to achieve our vision

Power passions at full volume.

We exist to help people try something new without fear or financial friction. Whether it's your first mic, an outdoor speaker setup, or an old-school turntable, we make it easy to jump in and enjoy.

To be the most loved brand for affordable hobbies and home entertainment.

We see a world where every person has the tools to follow their curiosity, not just their budget.

Turning up your passions.

We shorten the distance between an idea and action—helping people tune in, live out loud, and feel their dreams at full volume. If it's on your mind, it's within your means.

Our Mission

Who we are is reflected in our values. These are the central and key benefits that guide our actions, unite our people and uphold our mission.

Our values underpin everything we do at Pyle.

Accessibility

Every passion deserves a following.

At the right price, the only thing you can't afford is to quit before you start.

Affordability

Value is in the eyes of the consumer.

Pyle USA are the best value, without add-ons. They do the job, fuss-free.

Simplicity

Low learning curve = high joy ride.

When you don't need a user manual, you get to the fun part quicker.

Variety

The right tool beats the fancy tool.

From your first guitar to your latest boat party, variety is the spice of your life.

Vintage

Honor the joys of today & yesteryear.

Connect to the Pyle you remember and the piles of fun you are about to have.

Safety

All of the boom, none of the bust.

Go ahead, crank it up to 11. The USA in our name ensures you're safe to party.

Our brand personality is a reflection of who we are as a company and what we represent in the world of work. If nothing else, our outward-facing brand should represent the best of what we bring to work as colleagues at this company.

Brand Characteristics

Pyle Red

Encouraging
We believe in you even before you do.

Confident
Our stuff works; there's nothing to hide.

Relatable
You want us as your buddy for the ride.

Experienced
Clearly, we have a thing or two to share.

Bright Yellow

Optimistic
You won't see us doubt your bucket list.

Laidback
The worst thing to happen? Not trying.

Nudging
That boat o' yours wants a big woofer.

Irreverent
You'll spend more when they pay more.

We have one brand voice. Consistency builds credibility and trust with our customers. Brand voice is derived from our brand personality.

However, just like a human, our voice can and should flex for different occasions, topics, and media.

As a brand, we speak differently in a social media post than in an email, just like humans speak differently when texting a friend or emailing a boss.

These characteristics guide how we talk, wherever we are. We connect meaningfully with our audience when our words, actions and values align.

Our voice says, “You’ve got this. And if not, you’ll have fun trying.” It’s confident, encouraging, and laidback—experienced, but never too serious. We’re here to help people start, play, and enjoy the ride.

A voice you want to hang out with

We’re the voice that says:
“You got this. And if you don’t yet—well, you’re about to have fun trying.”

We’re the voice that makes it feel easy to start something—even if you’ve never tried it before. We hype you up without being over the top, and we know when to drop a line that makes you laugh and lean in.

Who we sound like

We sound like the friend who hands you the mic with a grin.
The one who says, “Go on—what’s the worst that could happen?”
We believe in you before you believe in yourself. And if it doesn’t go perfectly? That’s part of the fun.

We’re the type of brand that:

We speak like someone who’s been around the block but still gets excited like it’s the first time. Encouraging, confident, curious—and always down to turn the volume up just a little more.

Adds energy, not noise

Feels like a friend, not a brand voice memo

We all express ourselves slightly differently with different groups of people, but these expressions should always be bound by a common tone.

Our voice isn't just an intrinsic part of the product, it's an external representation of the people behind it. When representing our brand, use the following checklist to ensure an appropriate tone in both the written and spoken word.

When representing our brand, use the following checklist to ensure an appropriate tone in both the written and spoken word. To achieve our voice, we use these core copy practices.

We are clear

We don't hide behind fluffy marketing-speak, industry jargon or bland clichés. Using clear, simple language is key to us connecting with our audience.

Do choose simple, inclusive language
Do use short sentences and punctuation
Do be concise, each word should serve a purpose

Don't use technical jargon
Don't say what you see

We are conversational

We are a human brand, so we speak person-to-person, not company-to-person.

Do think of the brand as a person
Do write as you speak and punctuate accordingly
Do adapt how you speak for the topic, channel and audience, like a real person would.

Don't be overly casual
Don't swear or use slang
Don't use overused words (gonna, kinda, sort of, literally)

We are connecting

It's only when we truly understand our audience that we can connect with them. We zero in on insights that are relevant to our audience, we're not generic.

Do dig deep to uncover relevant human insights
Do speak and write as an equal (empathise)
Do share knowledge and ideas in an accessible way
Do be mindful of inclusivity

Don't fall back on clichés
Don't disparage or judge other points of view
Don't speak to the lowest common denominator

“We have a half-century heritage of making functional gear more accessible to hobbyists, newcomers, garage artists, analog DIYers and secondary setups. With lower entry barriers, you can get started at any budget, easily plug into anything, and feel it all at full output.”

Our messaging

Our messaging is how we communicate to our customers and highlight the value of our products and services. It is the big-picture message we want to convey to our customers. It is important to have consistent, clear and concise messaging across all platforms and touch points.

Primary Messaging

Turning up your passions.

Secondary Messaging

We make passions affordable.

Get into it for less. Get out of it more.

You can’t afford to ignore your passions.

Entertain it. Get into it.

Spend more time enjoying.

Get into it. Then get out there.

OUR LOGO

Our logo is a central element in our visual communications system. It is a universal signature across every channel and is the most immediate representation of our company, our people, and our brand. Sounds pretty important right? That's why we wrote so many fun rules for its use.

2.1	Logo Overview	18
2.2	Logo Clearspace	19
2.3	Logo Usage	20
2.4	Logo Color Usage	21
2.5	Logo Misuse	22
2.6	Logo Variations	23
2.7	Brand Trust Stamp	24

02

The Pyle logo is a valuable asset that must be used consistently in the proper, approved forms. The following pages show the ins and outs of our logo system and guidelines for its use and application.

Through consistent use in all of our communications, the logo becomes a visual shorthand that identifies Pyle and symbolically embodies its values, goals and personality.

Our logo consists of a custom crafted wordmark.

The clearspace ensures legibility and impact of the logo by isolating it from competing visual elements, such as text and supporting graphics. This space should be considered as the absolute minimum safe distance, ensuring the logo has plenty of room to breathe.

As a rule, the minimum clearspace around the logo is equal to the height of the logo. If you are using the icon instead of the logo, the same rules apply.

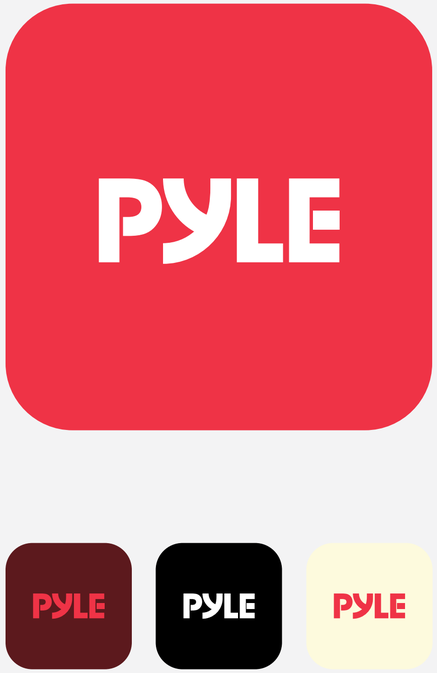
When scaling the logo, a minimum size must be adhered to so that legibility is retained. When printed, the logo must be at least 6mm in height. When displayed digitally, it must be at least 20px in height.

Digital — 20px

Print — 6mm

We also use our logo for our favicon, social avatars and app tile. This design has the unique ability to be legible at small sizes.

Favicon



Social Avatar

Our color palette is flexible and allows for unique and ownable color combinations, but color pairings need to be regulated to maintain a consistent brand impression.

Color is the first visual thing we remember, and a powerful asset in building brand recognition.

Our Primary color is Red. We use it first, last, and for nearly everything in between.

Our logo is used in Pyle Red.
If color is not an option for technical reasons or lacks contrast or competes with other visual elements, use either the black or white logo options.

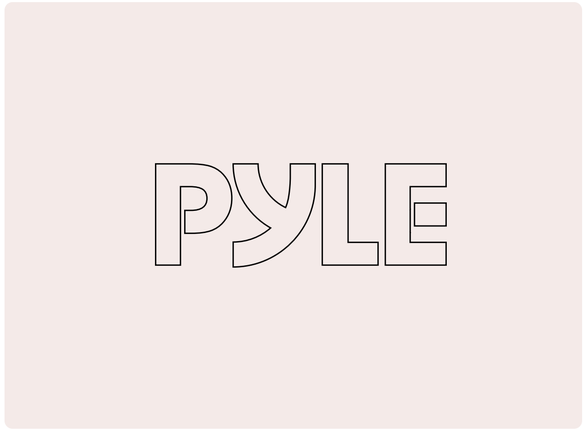
Over photography, you may use White or Pale Yellow, but ensure it is clear and legible.

1. Pyle Red on light backgrounds
2. Pale Yellow on Pyle Red backgrounds
3. Pyle Red on Deep Burgundy backgrounds
4. White on black backgrounds
5. Black on white backgrounds
6. Pale Yellow for use on photographs

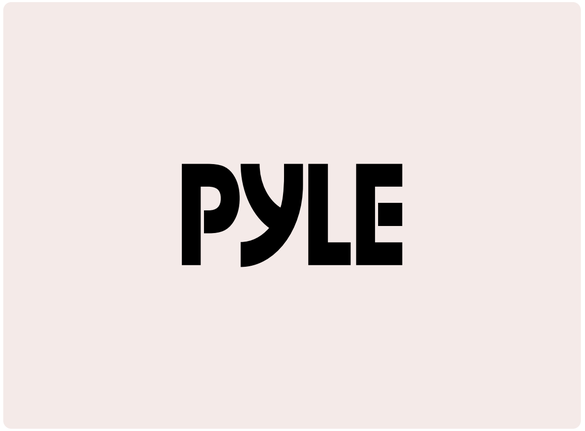
It is important that the appearance of the logo remains consistent.

The logo should not be misinterpreted, modified, or added to. No attempt should be made to alter the logo in any way.

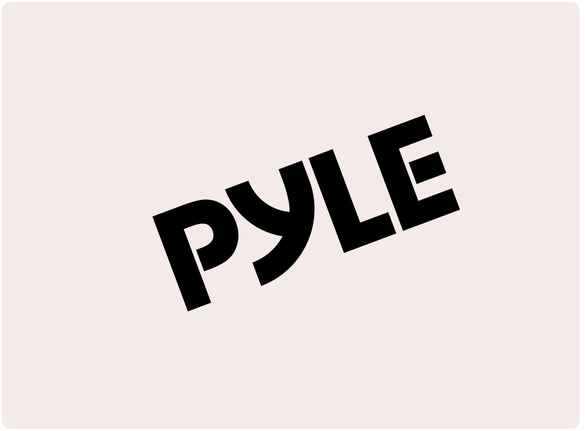
Its orientation and composition should remain as indicated in this document. To illustrate this point, here are some mistakes to avoid.



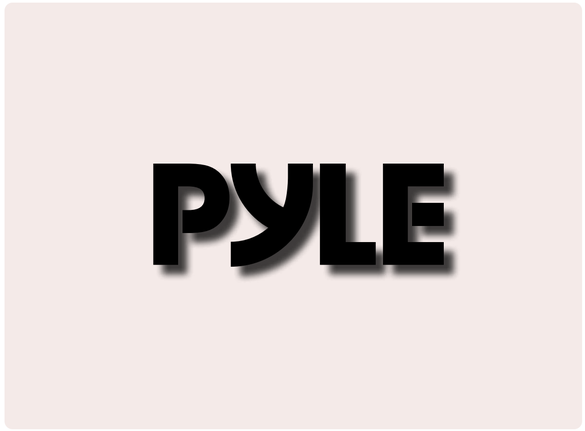
Don’t outline the logo



Don’t distort the logo



Don’t place the logo on an angle

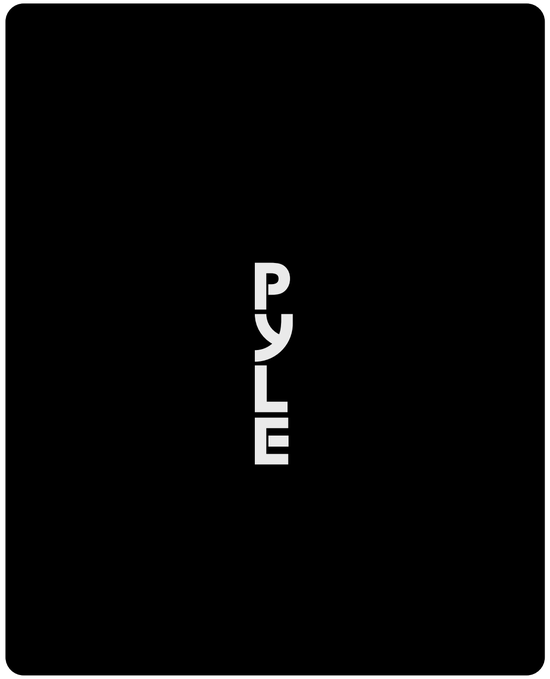


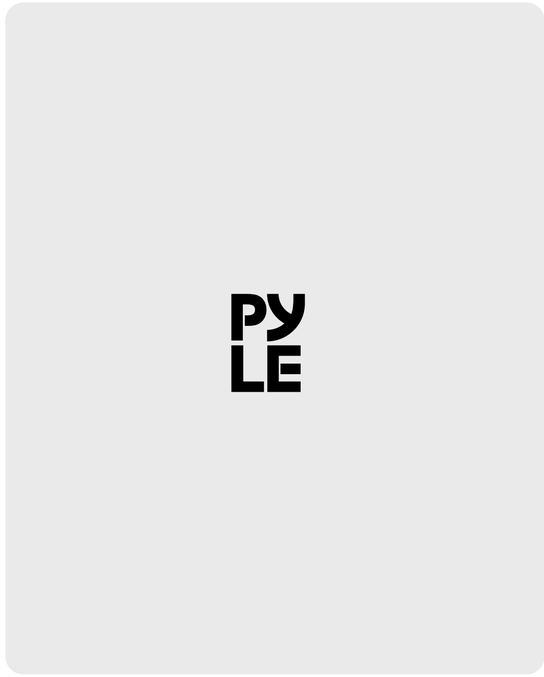
Don’t add effects to the logo

Don’t change the transparency

Don’t change the typeface of the logo

Logo — Primary Mark
The logo is our primary logo. It consists of the Pyle wordmark as a single mark. The logo is meant for use in scenarios where brand recognition is relatively low—the majority of external facing communications. This logo is the default.





Logo — Horizontal/Sqaure
The horizontal and Sqaure logo variations is reserved for rare cases where space or placement calls for a longer, narrower footprint—typically on products with limited vertical clearance. This format should only be used when the primary logo does not fit cleanly, such as along the edge of a speaker grill, device chassis, or narrow component. Use sparingly and only when the product shape demands it.

Brand Trust Stamp "Designed in the USA"
The stamp is our product trust mark. It reinforces the care, quality, and credibility behind every Pyle product—reminding customers that while our price point is accessible, our roots and standards are solid.

This stamp builds trust, especially in product-first touchpoints like packaging, product shells, manuals, and ecommerce images.

There are several variations of the stamp to ensure it works clearly across different background colors and materials. Always choose the version that offers the most contrast and legibility. The stamp should never overpower the logo or product, but complement it with a quiet sense of confidence.

1. Full color on light backgrounds
2. Inverted on Pyle Red backgrounds
3. White on black backgrounds
4. Black on white backgrounds

COLOR

Color means everything to us. It brightens our day and helps define who we are. It's one of the strongest elements we use to connect with our audience. It simultaneously establishes tone and aids in the recognition of our brand across all communications, thus the balanced use of color is crucial.

3.1	Color Overview	26
3.2	Primary Pantone Colors	27
3.3	Color Combinations	28
3.4	Type & Color	29
3.5	Color Usage Examples	30

03

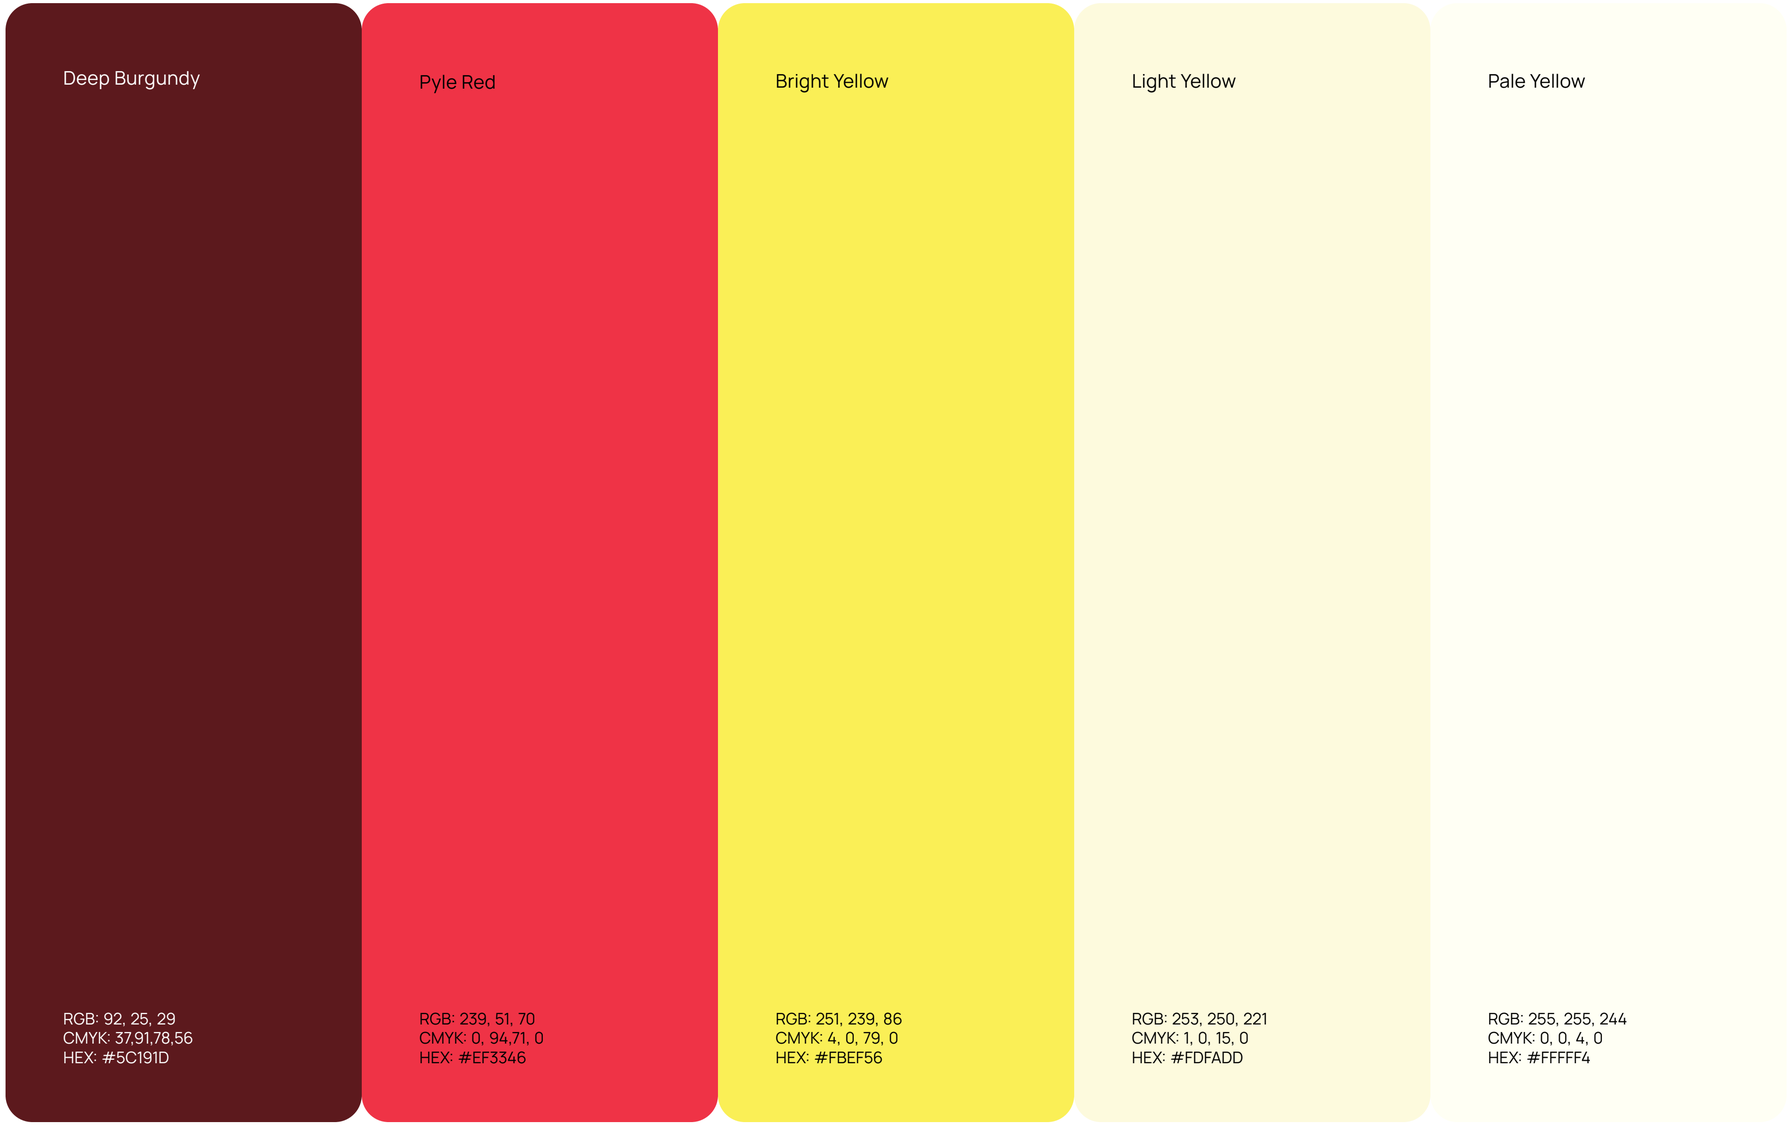
This is our primary palette and should be used in all brand communications.

Pyle Red is our primary brand color — our aim is to drive brand recognition through the increased use of this red.

Deep Burgundy is used as a background color or text color on light backgrounds.

Light Yellow also plays a key role in our palette. It helps create balance and legibility with lighter tones. It can support product shots, instructions, or social content that needs space and clarity.

Pale Yellow is used as a background color or text color on dark backgrounds. When applied, it takes the edge off a stark white page.



Pantone colors ensure visual consistency across every touchpoint—from digital design to physical production. Whether we're printing packaging, merchandising materials, or product labels, Pantone provides a universal color reference that ensures our brand looks the same everywhere.

Each of our core brand colors has an assigned Pantone match. Always reference these when working with vendors, manufacturers, or printers to guarantee accuracy in color reproduction.

Use Pantone values for:
- Printed materials
- Color-matching on product hardware or finishes
- Ensuring consistency across third-party production

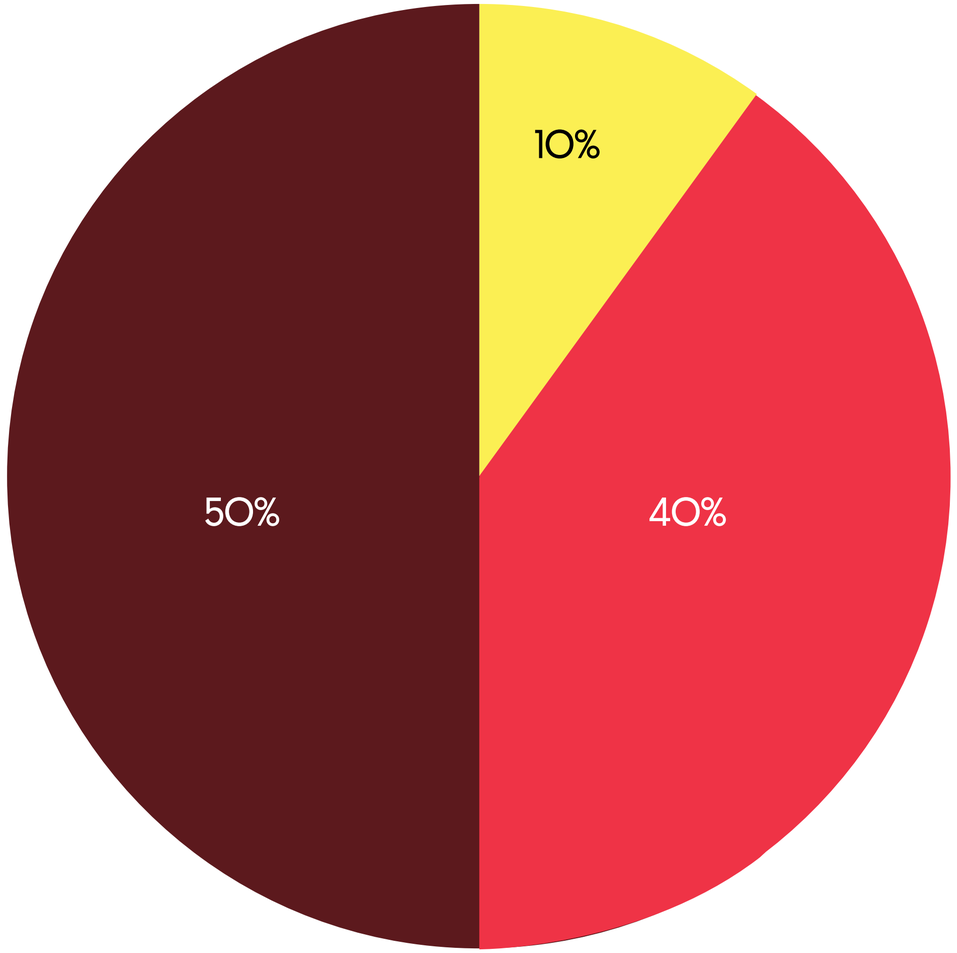
Our colors help bring our brand to life, so we should use a variety of combinations to keep it looking fresh. Shown here are examples that should act as guidance on how we can use different color combinations when building creative.

Note that we should always lead with our primary color and use other colors from our palette as accent colors. This will allow us to turn the volume up or down on our brand output.

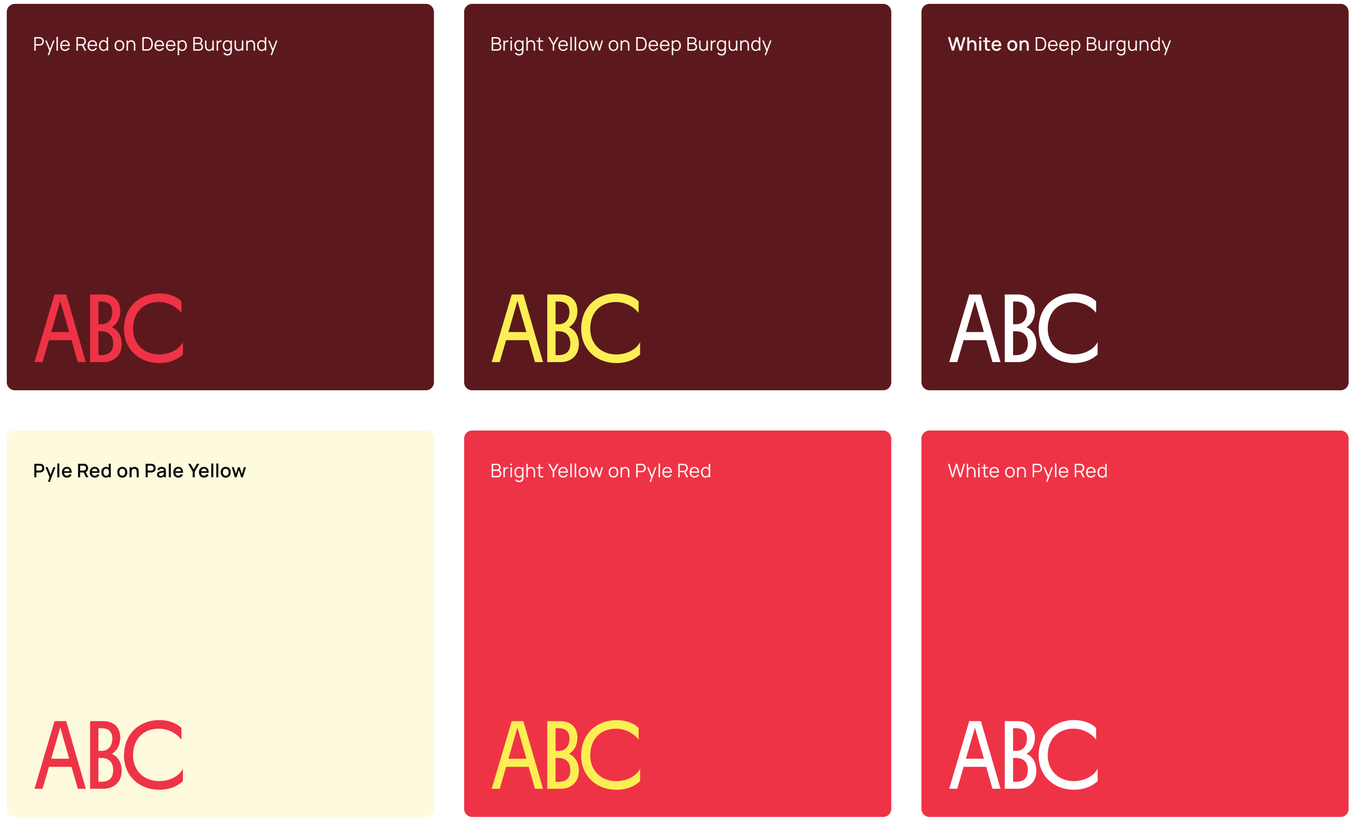
Color balance

A simple rule for creating balanced color palettes is the 50/40/10 rule. This is where the dominant color takes up 50% of the palette, the secondary color takes up 40%, and the accent color takes up the remaining 10%. This formula works because it creates a sense of balance and allows the eye to move comfortably from one focal point to the next.

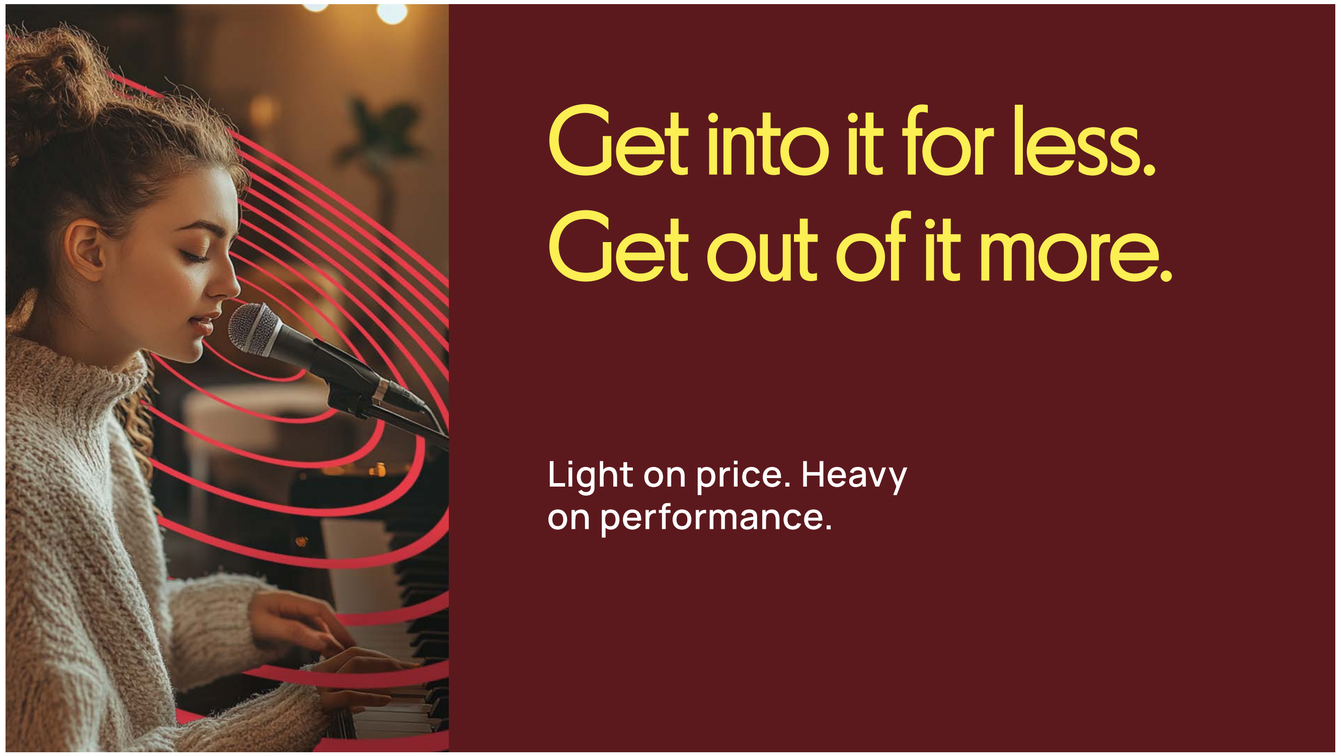
3 Colors



Our color combinations are purposefully complementary, striking and accessible. They were made to match up, so let's keep them that way. Here are a few high contrast combinations.



These are examples of how our color palette would be best applied to maintain consistency of look and feel on larger brand initiatives, moments and campaigns.



3 Colors
In this example Deep Burgundy takes up 60 percent of the palette. Pale Yellow takes up 30 percent and Pyle Red is used as the accent colour to highlight the logo.

TYPOGRAPHY

Typography is an essential element in our visual language. Our typographic system is built on legibility and accessibility. It's clear, bold, and endlessly expressive. It's a keystone of our identity, and through careful and consistent application of typographic principles across all communications, a vital tool in building brand recognition.

4.1	Typography Overview	34
4.2	Primary Typeface	35

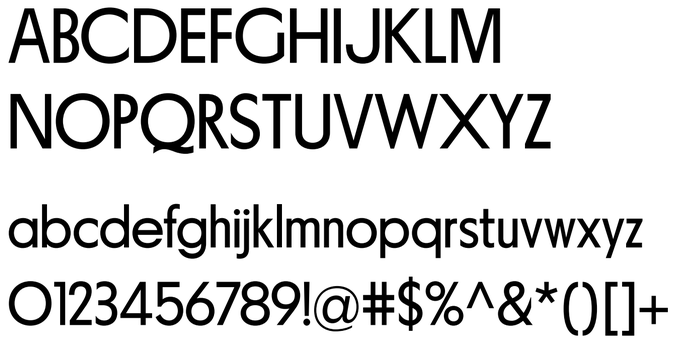
Typography is a key element in our brand. It works to maintain consistency, create clarity and provide equity to our brand. It is important to adhere to the typographic hierarchy specified in this document to help achieve brand consistency and recognition.

We use Parafina Medium S for our headlines and Manrope Regular for our small headlines, subheads and body copy.

Parafina is a display typeface and is designed to be used in small quantities at large sizes. Manrope is a legible and functional typeface that works across all applications and sizes.

Display Headlines Parafina - Medium S



Body Text Manrope - Regular

Our primary typeface is Manrope, an open-source modern sans-serif font family. It is a simple and legible typeface that complements our logo.

Manrope's simplicity, clarity, and form make it the perfect functional typeface for us. Always default to Manrope. Unless you're being expressive, use Manrope to ensure clear and effective communication with everyone.

Typeface Weights

We use five weights of Manrope throughout our communications. To ensure sufficient contrast, skip a weight. Never pair two weights that are one grade apart from each other, such as Regular and Medium

Our secondary typeface is Parafina. It is a display typeface designed to be used in small quantities at large sizes.

We use it for our display headlines. It's loud, bold, playful, and full of personality. With its not-so-serious tone, it pairs perfectly with our logo. Parafina makes an unmistakable statement and works as display typography across both digital platforms and print materials.

Use Parafina for punchy headlines—when you want to turn up the volume and make something sing. It's bold, rhythmic, and built to stand out, like a quick guitar riff that grabs your attention. Just like a good hook, a little goes a long way, so use it where it hits hardest.

4.4 Type Size Relationship

When creating layouts using all typefaces, clear hierarchy can be established by making sure subheadlines are no larger than 50% of the ascender height of the headline and body copy is no larger than 50% of the cap height of subheadlines.

Ascender
An ascender is an upward part of a letterform (often a vertical stroke) that extends above the x-height and usually above the cap height, such as the stem of a lowercase b or d.

Cap Height
Cap height is the height of a typeface's uppercase letters, measured from the baseline to the top of flat-topped glyphs. This is usually slightly lower than the ascender height, and cap height can vary between typefaces.

X-Height
Although it's based upon the height of the lowercase "x" glyph in a typeface, x-height also considers the height of the lowercase characters that have no ascenders nor descenders; this indicates how tall or short the type appears in typical lowercase or mixed-case settings.

Parafina

Manrope

Our messaging should be visually consistent and type should perform well across communications of varied sizes. The following pages detail settings and general rules recommended for kerning, tracking, word spacing and leading to ensure that type remains consistent, accessible and legible. Adjustments and final refinements to leading and kerning are encouraged, particularly for large headlines and display text.

Word Spacing
Use default word spacing for most applications. Word spacing should generally be left alone unless manually adjusted along with kerning.

Kerning
Kerning must always be set to “Optical” by default. Manual kerning will typically not be needed but extra attention should be paid to medium-to-large headline and display text to ensure it is optically balanced.

Tracking and Leading
Both tracking and leading depend on use case and type size. As a general rule, the larger the type, the tighter the tracking and leading. Leading is tighter with headlines and subheadings to avoid unsightly gaps and create a unified appearance.

In some cases the Parafina typeface can be used in all caps for specific layouts when using 4 words or less. Leading for all caps headlines is set at 80% of the point size.

To create 80% leading in InDesign:
Type directly into the leading selection box in Adobe InDesign. For example, type 300*0.8 (and hit enter) to find leading for 300pt and the software will calculate the leading for you.

Attention should be given to the written copy. Ensuring legibility as well as visual attraction. To create a clear hierarchy it is important that we ensure size differences between different kinds of information. Using less sizes creates a more distinct impression. It is important to adhere to the leading (line height), tracking and text arrangement specified in this document to achieve brand consistency throughout.

Adjustments to leading and kerning are encouraged, particularly for large display headlines. See quick reference below.

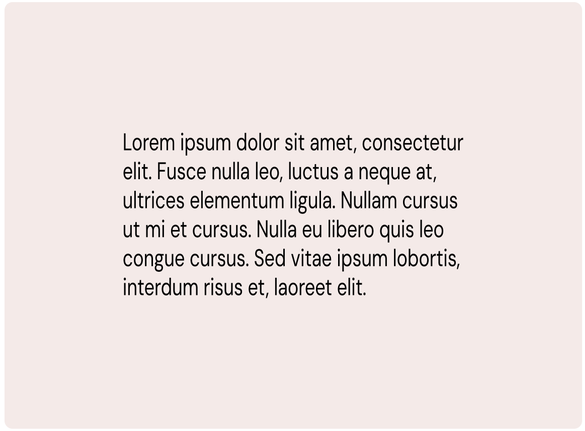
TITLE SUBSECTIONS IN SEMIBOLD & ALL CAPS
WITH 100 TRACKING TO CREATE CONTRAST

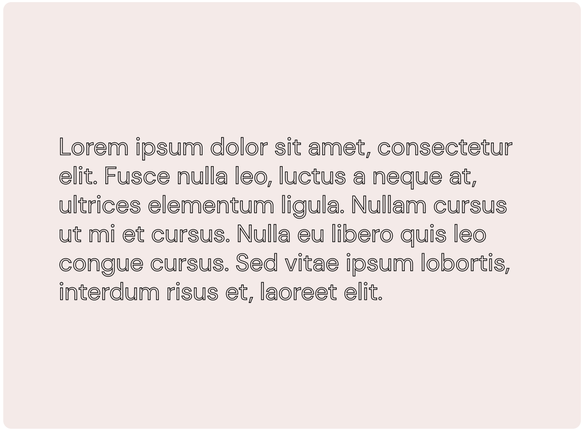
Pyle USA is on a mission to shorten the distance between somethingyou consider and something you do. Toemboldenyou to accept the call of the next wild thing. To alleviate your fears of jumping in, trying your hand at something new, or outfitting your own corner of the world.

That's been our company promise for over 45 years: We exist to power your passions, hobbies, side projects, and inspired gifts into existence. To afford you the luxury of tuning in, living out loud, feeling your dreamsat full volume, and becoming downright unsilenceable.

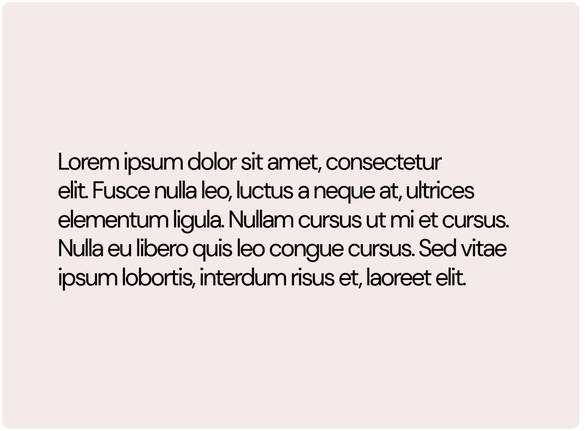
Good typography is extremely important in both internal and external communications. It adds clarity to messaging and instills confidence in audiences. Outlined are some common practices that weaken the powerful effects of typography.



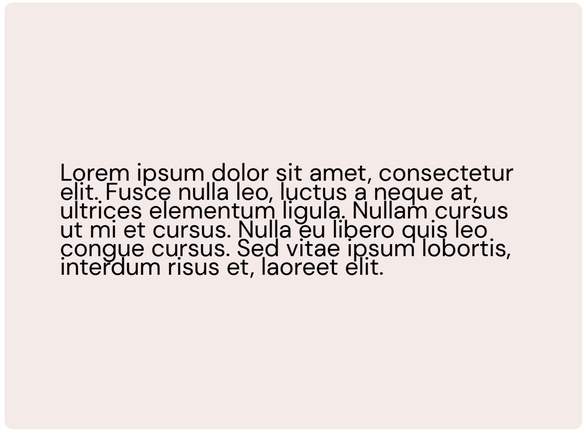
Don’t stretch or distort type



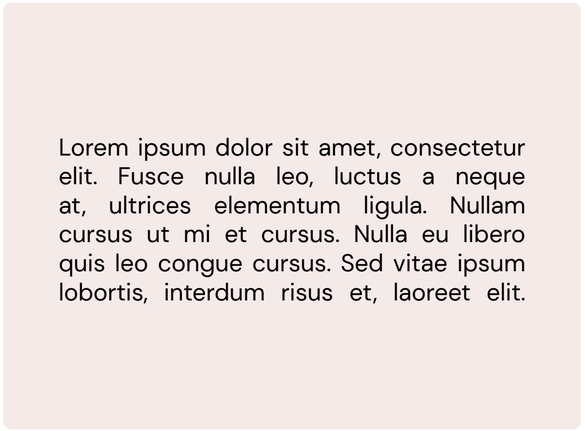
Don’t outline text



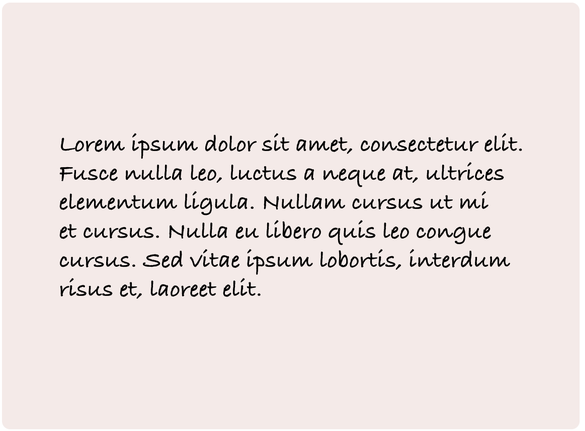
Don’t use tracking that is too tight



Don’t use leading that is too tight



Don’t justify paragraphs



Don’t use unapproved fonts

GRID SYSTEM, LAYOUTS & PATTERNS

These pages will take you through a step-by-step construction of our grid and some primary layouts and patterns used in our visual system.

5.1	Applying Headlines	43
5.2	Applying Subheads	44
5.3	Applying Our Logo	45
5.4	Applying Half-Frame Photography	46
5.5	Applying Full-Frame Photography	48
5.6	Brand Pattern	49
5.7	Brand Pattern Usage	51

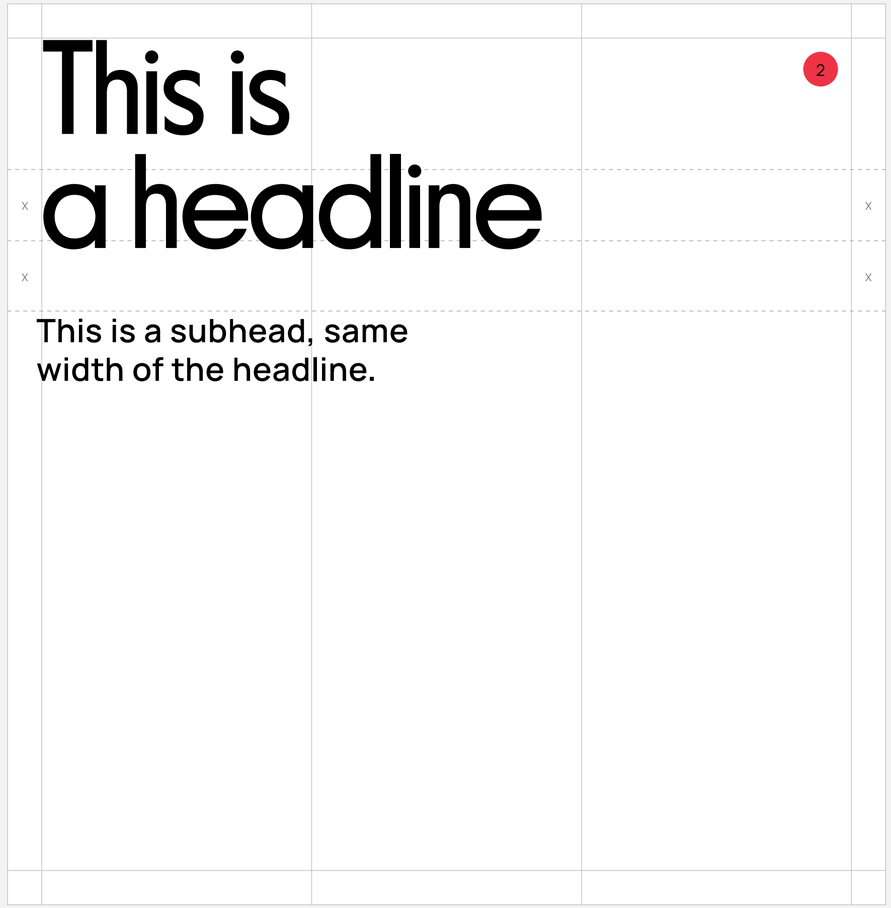
Headlines are applied to documents relative to the margins, format size, and line length. Use these examples as a reference for setting headlines across various application formats.

1. For wide banners, headlines should be scaled to fit the vertical height of the banner.
2. For formats where the headline would take up too much vertical real-estate were it to span the entire format, the page can be divided into proportional columns for the headline to size to.
3. For vertical formats, the longest line of the headline should span margin to margin.

Subheadlines are applied relative to the headline. Subheadlines should be at maximum 50% of the type size of the headline to ensure proper hierarchy.



1. This subhead is set to take up the vertical space of the headline's second line.
2. This subhead is set to occupy the same column width as the headline
3. This subhead spans the first two columns of this page, if it were divided into 3 even columns.

Our logo is generally applied in the bottom right corner. Ensure our logo scales proportionally with each application. For billboard use, the logo size can be increased for visibility at the discretion of the designer, using this page as an optical reference.

When the dimensions of the application permits, edge to edge photography can be added. Ensure that the proper margin is still left between the text frame and the photo.

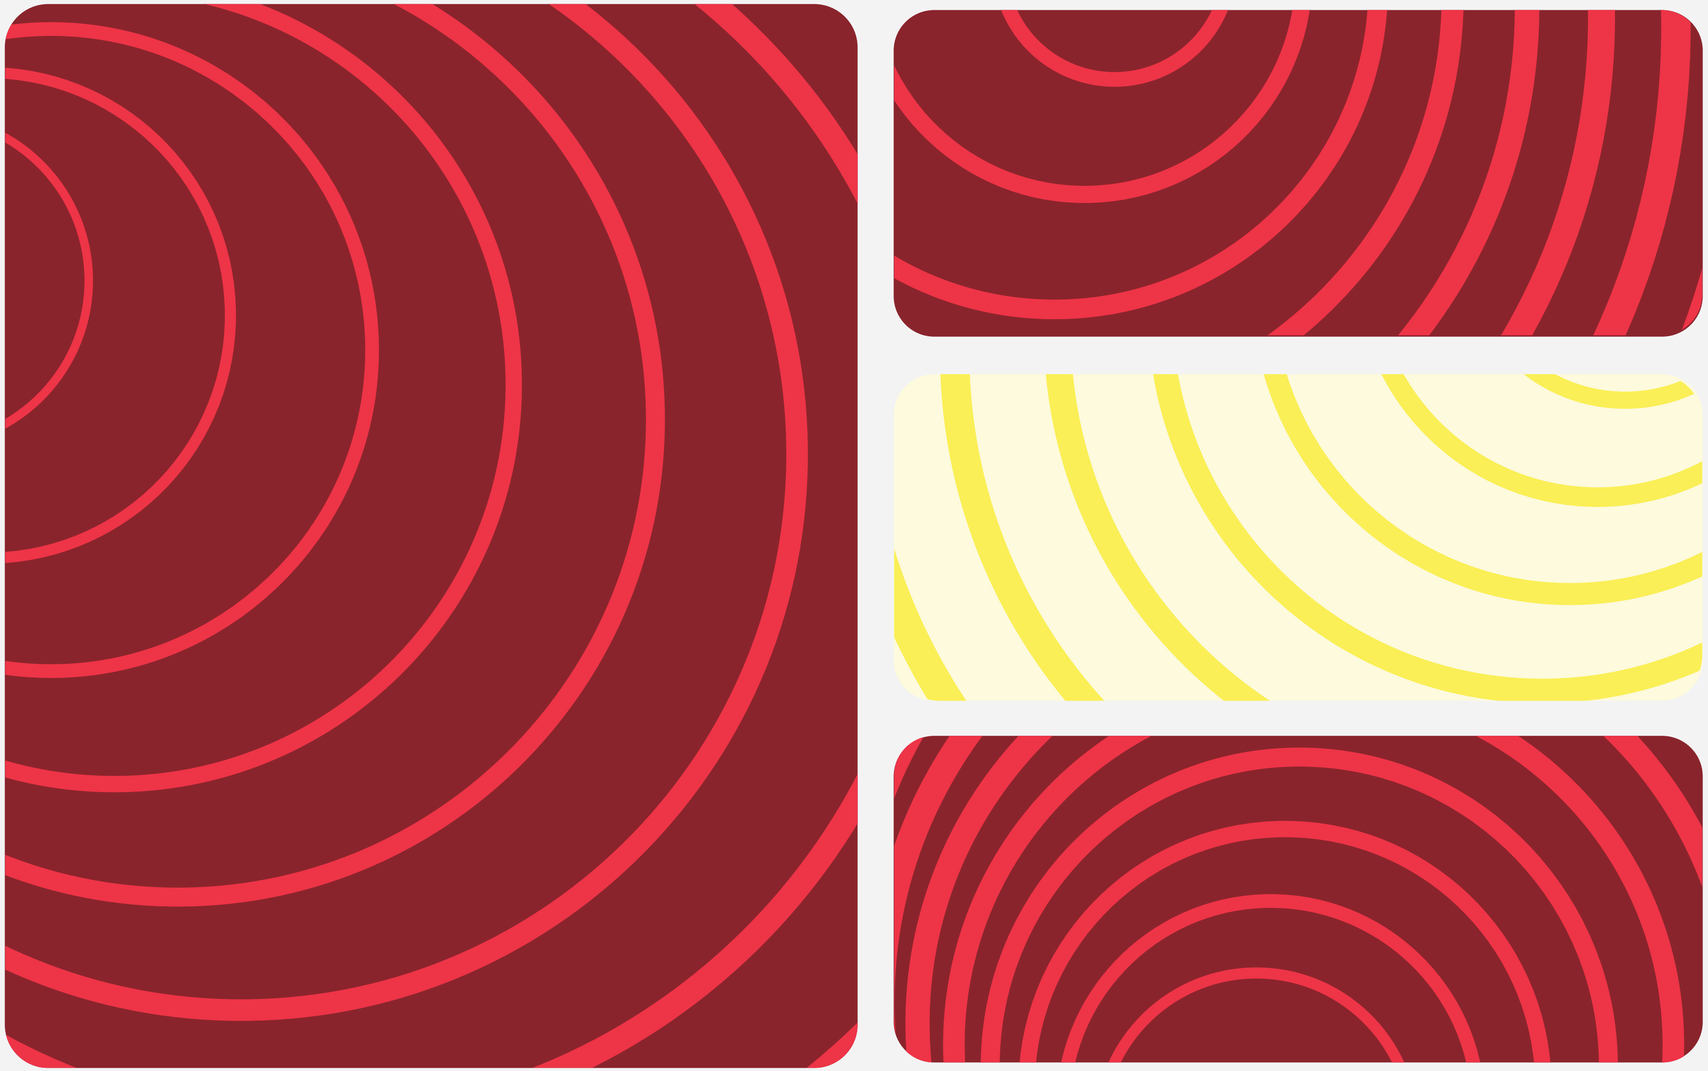
The pattern was custom-designed to bring a playful and lively touch to the brand. It adds personality and charm, softening the overall aesthetic while still aligning with the brand's clean and modern look.

Its unique design serves as a visual signature that feels fresh, engaging, and approachable.

Showcasing various cropped moments of the pattern reveals its versatility and how it brings subtle energy and texture to the brand system.



The pattern is used to subtly envelop imagery, adding energy and movement to the composition. It enhances the layout with a fun, expressive element that ties the visual story together—making the brand feel more dynamic, cohesive, and alive across various applications.

ICONOGRAPHY

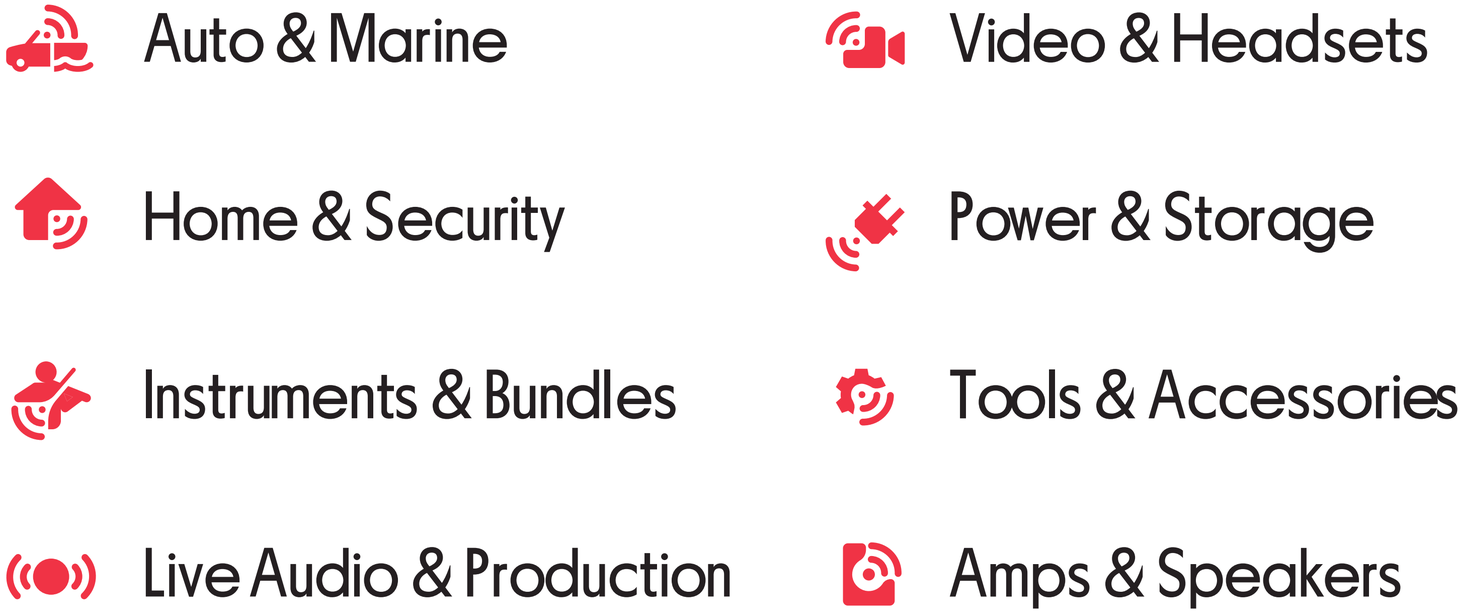
Iconography plays a relatively smaller role in the grand scheme of our brand assets, but that doesn't mean we give our icon system any less care or attention to detail. These symbols have been crafted to serve a purpose and distill a concept into a simple, recognisable form. Our icons help to illustrate ideas, indicate features at a glance, and aid functionality for digital applications.

06

They say a picture paints a thousand words. Well, our icons do that too. They're the ultimate shorthand — straightforward, simple, accessible.

Our Product category iconography uses custom icons to visually represent different categories of products, making it easier for users to navigate and browse our online stores or catalogs.

These icons are simple symbols, but they should be consistently designed and visually appealing to enhance the user experience.



Product feature iconography uses icons to visually represent the specific attributes and benefits of a product.
These icons help communicate information quickly and efficiently to consumers, making it easier for them to understand and compare different products. By using icons, we can effectively highlight key features.

The icons can work across both light and color background s, adapting seamlessly to gradient changes and adjusting to different background tones with ease.

7.2	Lifestyle	57
7.3	Brand Photos with Pattern	58

PHOTOGRAPHY

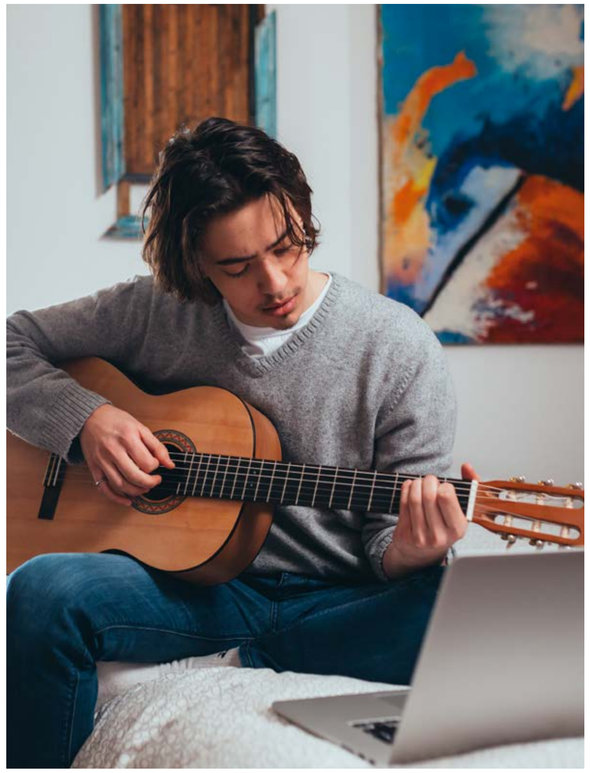
Photography is one of our most essential tools. Whether for still photography or video, the immediacy of the images we capture allows us to connect with our audience on another level. Use a distinctive natural photographic style to portray our vision and brand values.

07

Our photography should be warm, vibrant and have uncluttered backgrounds to ensure they stand out or employ a shallow depth of field to achieve the same result. Strong contrast should be used to highlight our delicious products, and minimal styling should be employed, with the goal of showcasing our packaging against simple backgrounds.

Space for headlines should be considered.

Our products will feature as both hero and background elements.



Our lifestyle imagery should be familiar and recognisably American. We're not looking for anything too fancy or trying too hard to make a statement.

We're looking for a sense of environment rather than anything too distracting.
It will feel inspired but accessible, our products featured tastefully throughout will add the warmth and make everything feel like home.

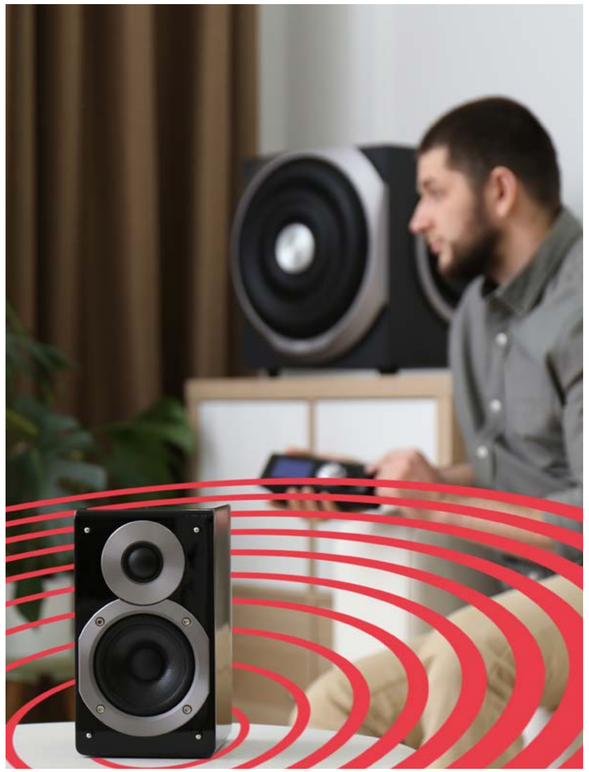
Photos with the brand pattern should still feel unmistakably Pyle—full of life, energy, and real people doing what they love.

Let the moment speak for itself.

The Pyle pattern should never take over—think of it as background energy, not the main act. Always crop the photo in a way that keeps the subject (product or person) clear.

The pattern should feel like it's part of the scene—not pasted on top. Let it peek from the edges, wrap behind, or subtly pulse through the background. Avoid full-bleed overlays or placing it directly over key focal points. It's here to support the story, not steal the spotlight.

Subtle = powerful. Use it with intention.



APPLICATION

We have one consistent visual language across all applications, ensuring brand recognition. All aspects of our brand communications, whether they are online, offline, instore or outdoor, must adhere to the integrity of one clear visual system.

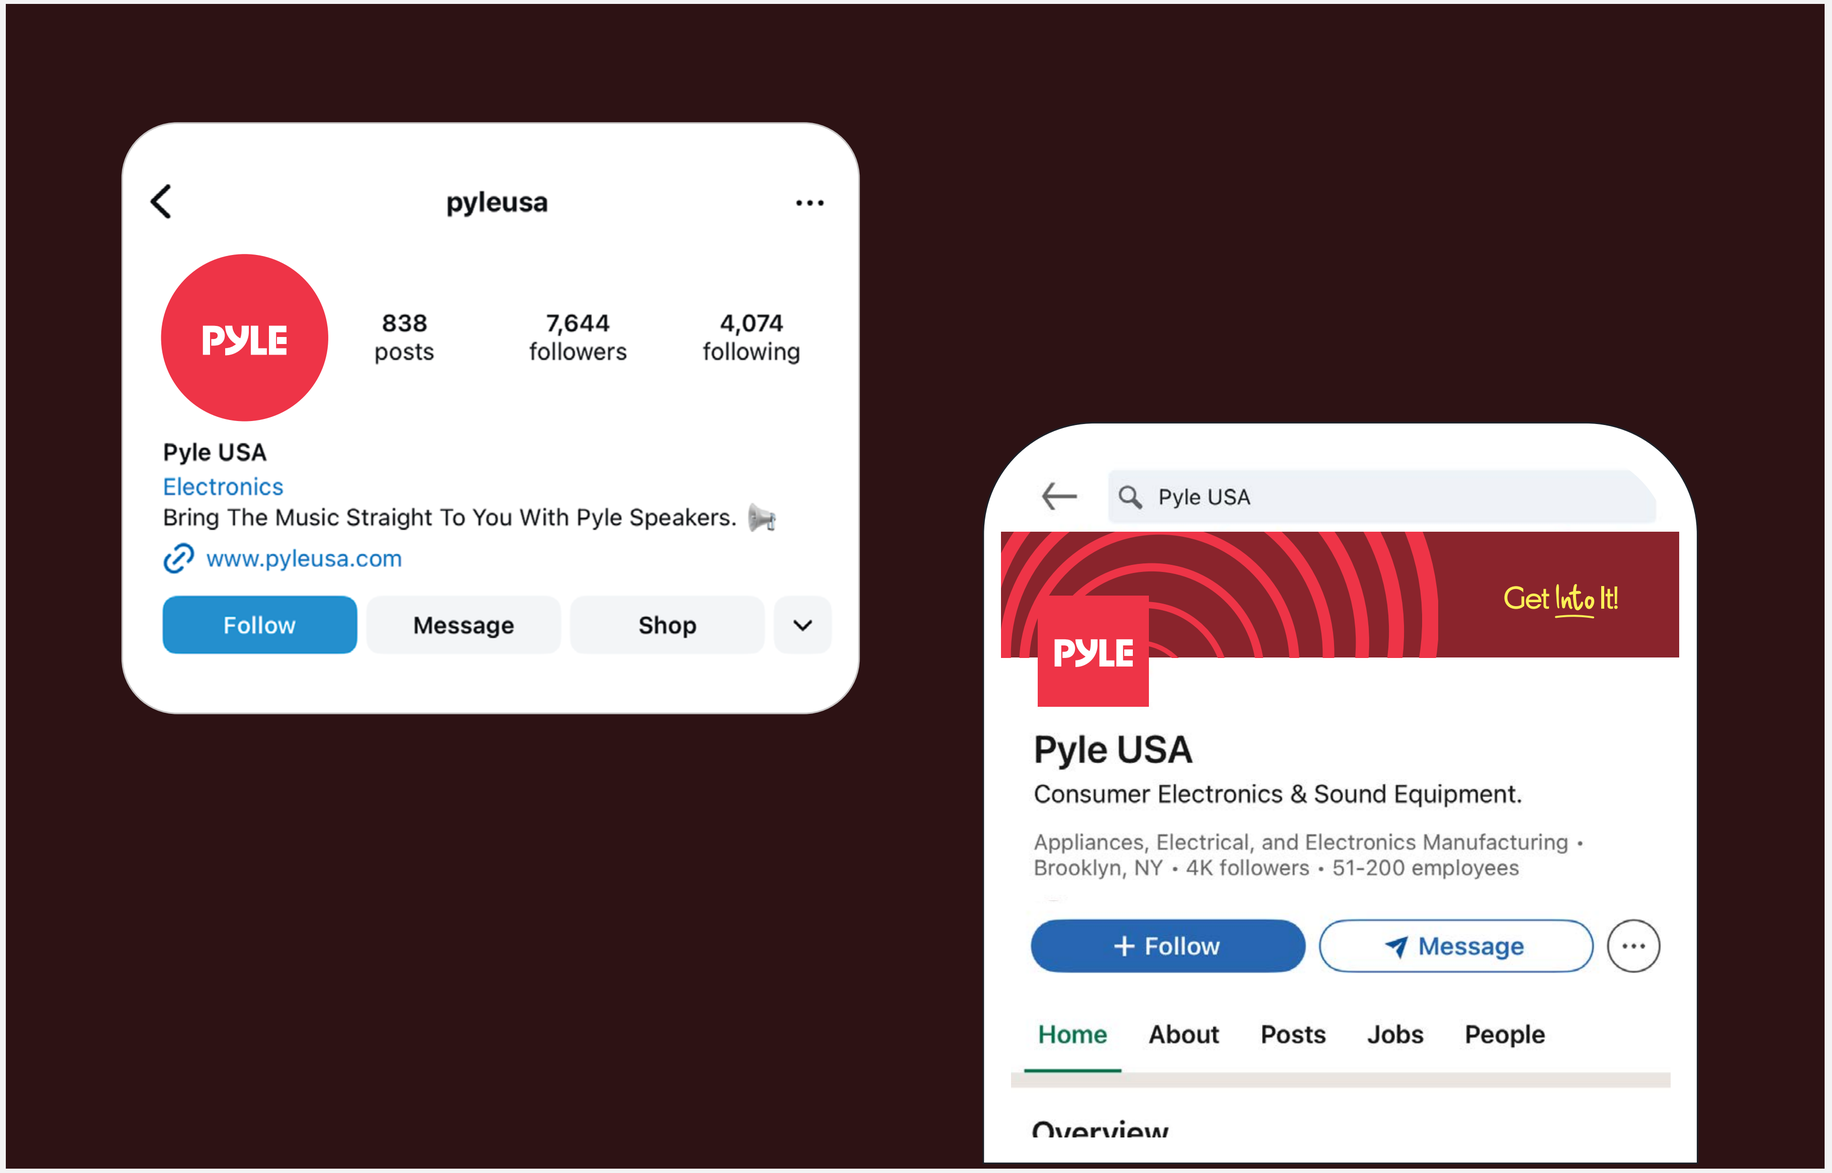
Suggested direction when designing email signatures. With email a primary medium for communication, it is important that our brand is represented in a consistent style.

A cohesive and polished profile layout that reflects the brand's identity at first glance—establishing recognition, professionalism, and visual consistency across platforms.



Real-world applications show how color, typography, pattern, and imagery work together to build a strong, cohesive brand.

Consistent use of these elements is essential for maintaining clarity, recognition, and a unified brand presence.

PACKAGING

Here's how Pyle shows up on the shelf and at the door. Bold, approachable, and ready to plug in. From boxes to inserts, every detail is designed to excite, inform, and invite people to get into it.

This is the unit's primary packaging—the box the product lives in. Sometimes called the gift box, it can be printed in full color or kept kraft brown, depending on the product tier. It's the first real physical touchpoint with our brand, so it should feel clear, confident, and trustworthy. Whether sitting on a shelf or arriving by mail, it needs to look like it's ready to deliver on what it promises.

The inner carton is the product's main box—often branded or retail-ready. It holds the individual unit and is used for display or direct-to-consumer shipping. It's packed inside the master carton for protection during transport.

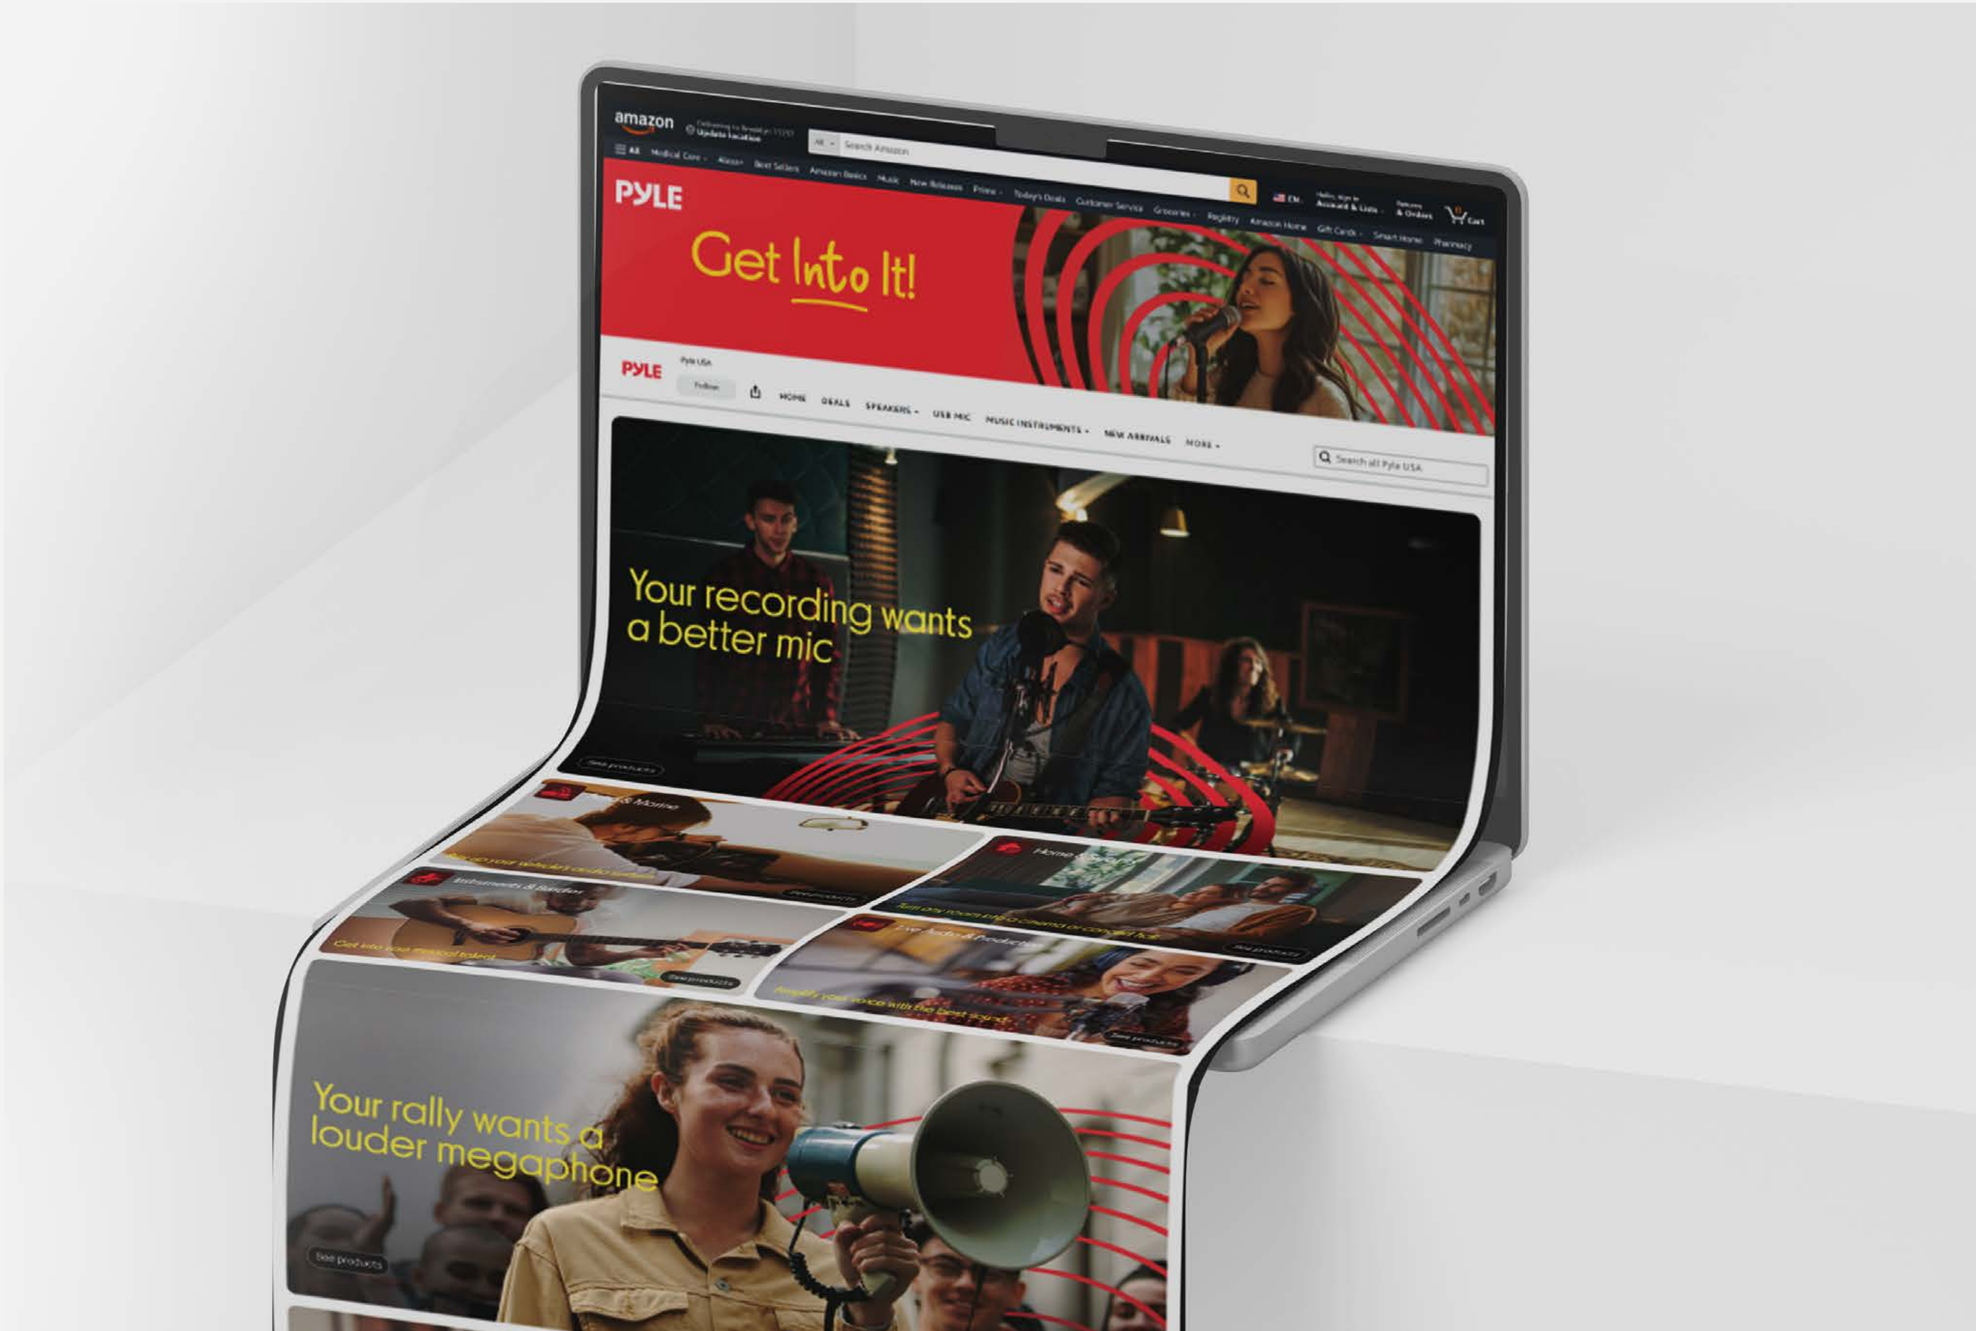
AMAZON STORE

This is where most people meet us—so every pixel matters. From the storefront, product images to A+ content, our Amazon presence should feel bold, helpful, and ready to convert. Clear info, confident visuals, and just enough personality to make someone click “Add to Cart.”

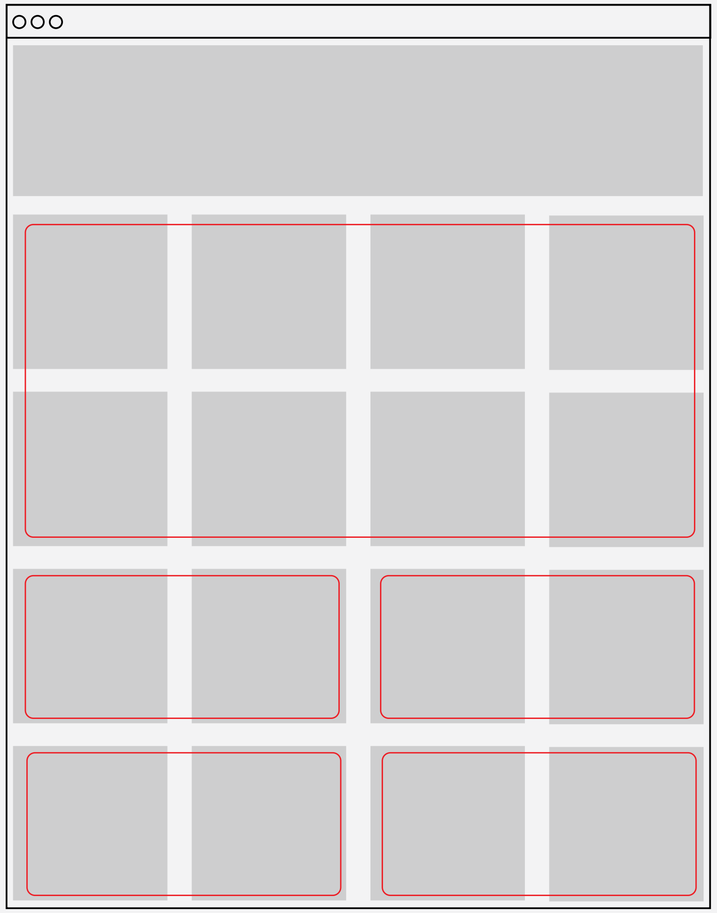
10

The Amazon Storefront is a dedicated, branded space within Amazon that functions like a mini website. It allows us to design a custom layout that showcases the full product range, tells the brand story, and guides the customer journey—all while keeping the visuals cohesive and on-brand across multiple pages.

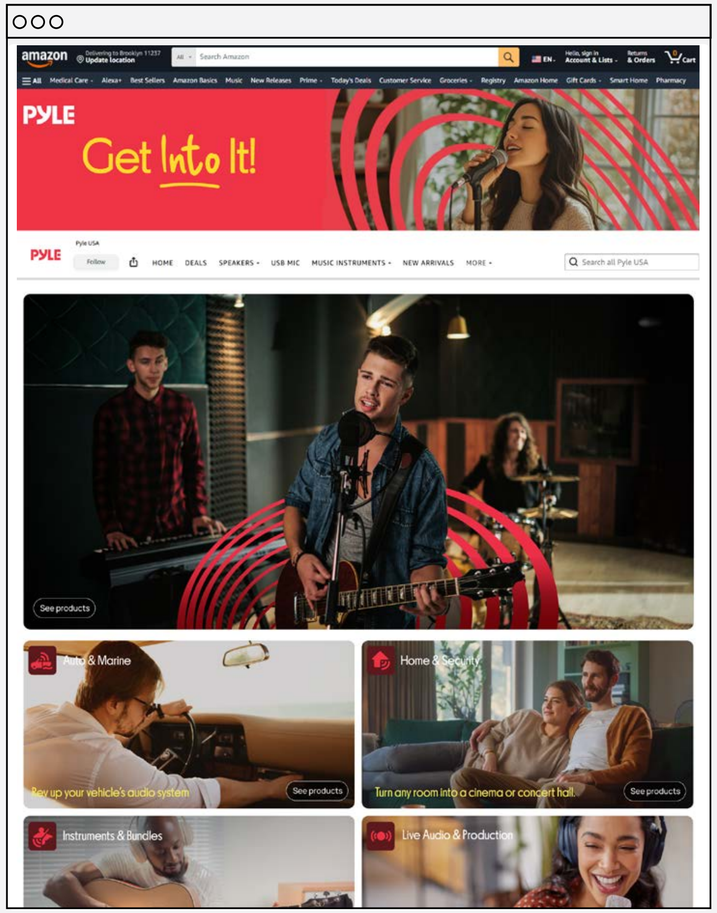


Our storefront is more than a shop—it's a branded experience. The grid layout should feel clean, scrollable, and intuitive, with strong lifestyle imagery, quick-hit copy, and visual hierarchy that leads the eye. Think of it as our highlight reel: organized by category, punctuated with energy, and always pushing people closer to the product that fits their life.

Balance bold product shots with lifestyle scenes, keep headlines short and punchy, and use callouts to make features pop. Every tile should earn its spot—and together, they should make it easy to browse, buy, and come back.



The four-row grid ensures products are easy to scan, with consistent spacing, alignment, and image sizing creating a clean, balanced layout.



A+ Content on Amazon is enhanced product detail that allows brands to showcase their items with rich visuals, photos, and custom text. It helps improve customer engagement, build trust, and increase conversions by providing a more informative and appealing shopping experience.

Consistent use of pur brand elements across A+ content helps tie the layout together and creates a smooth, visually cohesive experience that makes it easier for customers to browse and absorb information.

WEBSITE

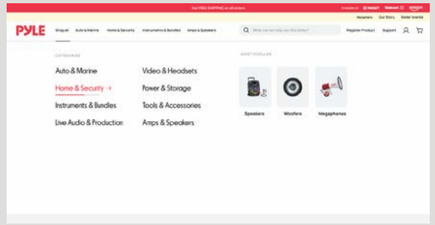
The website is where the brand comes to life—part catalog, part playground. It should be easy to navigate, clear in messaging, and packed with energy. Whether someone's browsing, buying, or just exploring, the experience should feel like Pyle: fun, functional, and ready to turn it up.

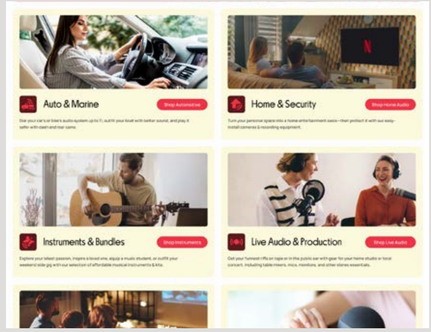
11

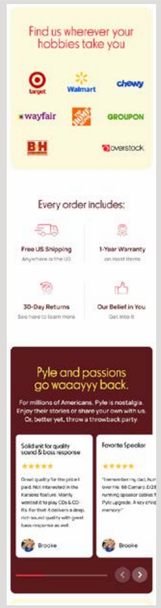
The website is the full expression of the Pyle brand in the digital world. It's where we sell, support, and spark inspiration. Every page should be easy to navigate, visually energetic, and clearly communicate what we stand for: accessible gear, joyful experiences, and honest value.

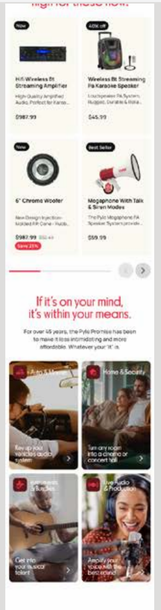
It's built to work seamlessly across desktop and mobile, with flexible, repeatable design systems that scale. From stacked modules to responsive image blocks, every layout should adapt effortlessly—without losing energy or clarity. Whether you're browsing on your phone or digging into specs on a big screen, the experience should feel bold, smooth, and unmistakably Pyle.

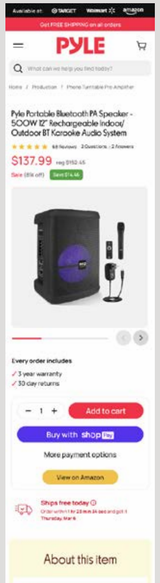
It's not just a store. It's where people come to get into it.

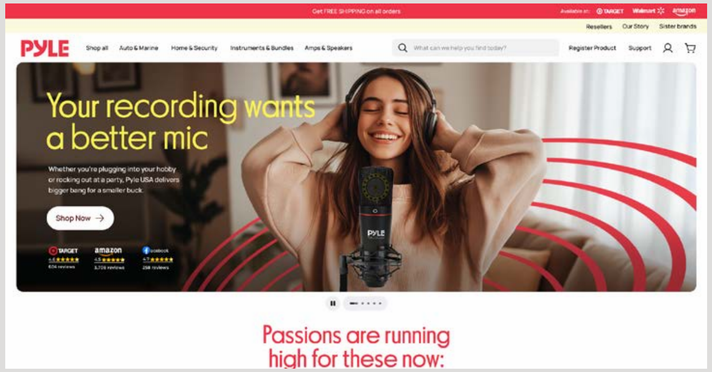


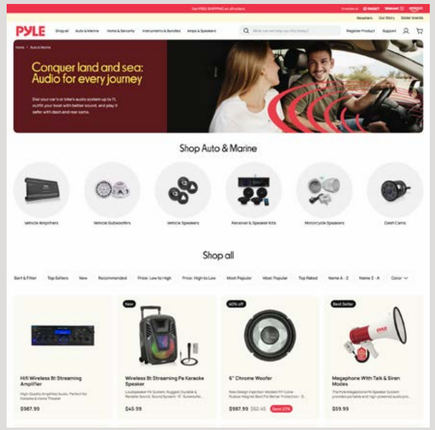


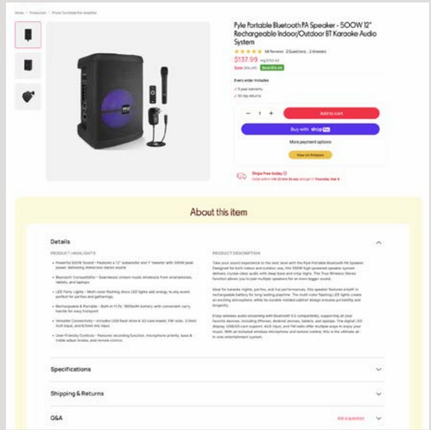


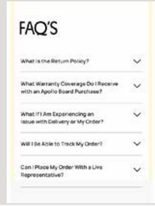


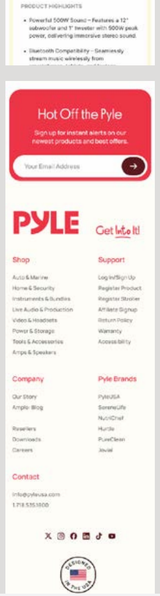


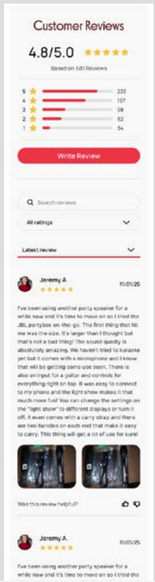




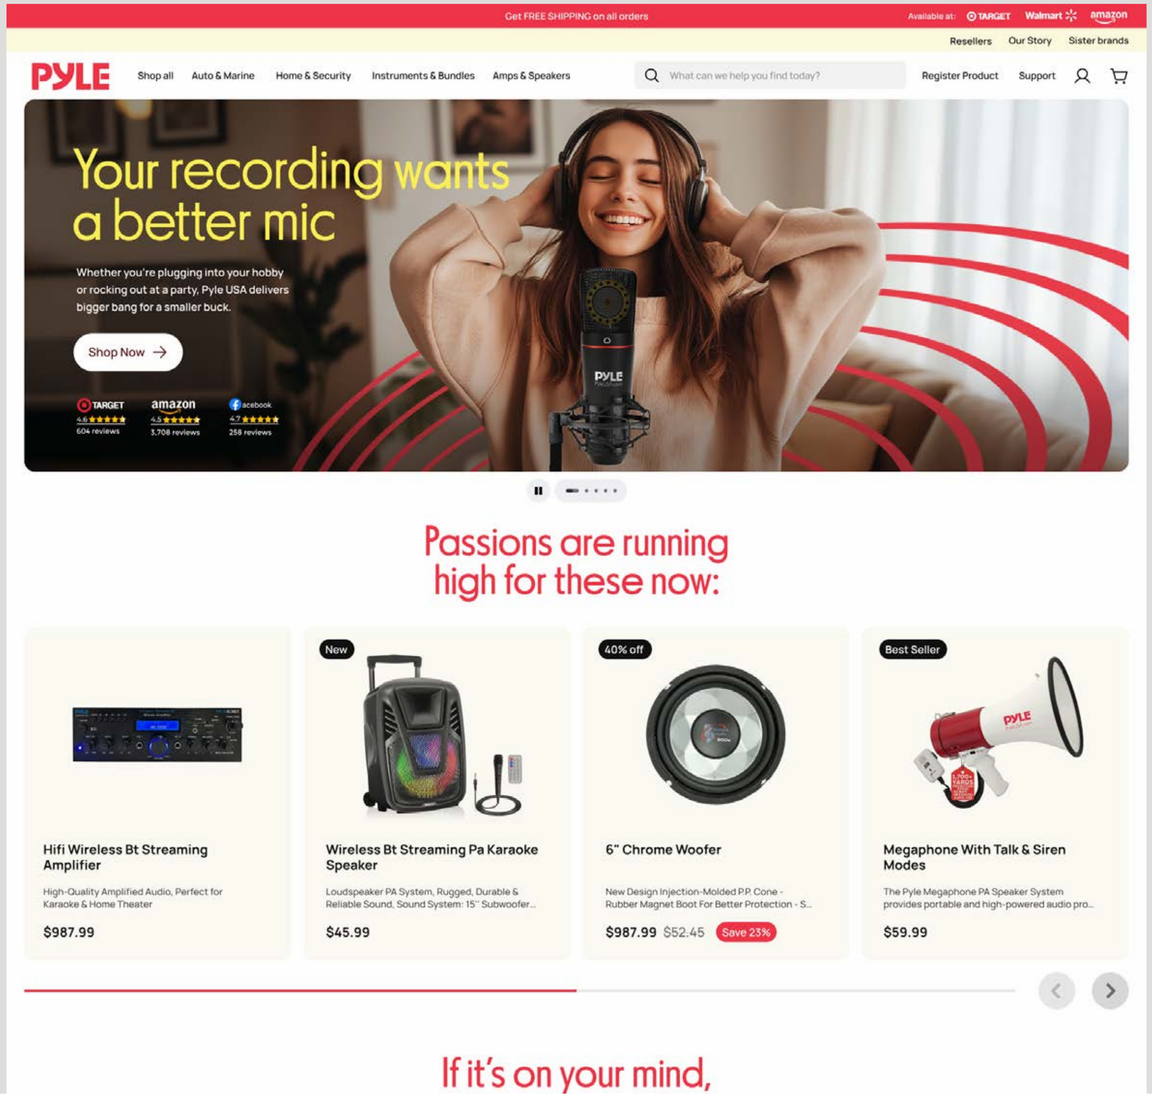




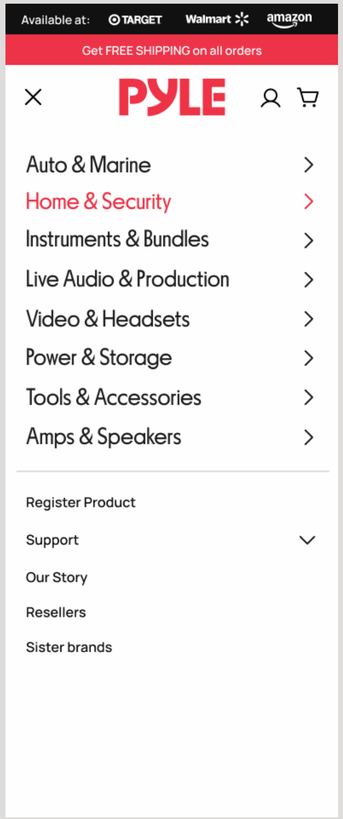


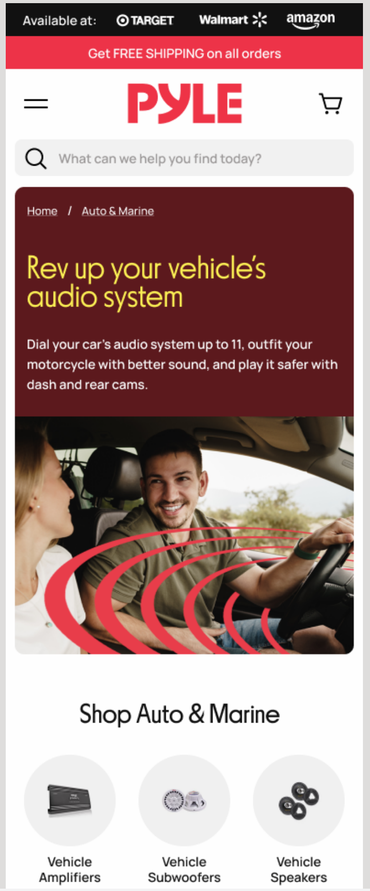


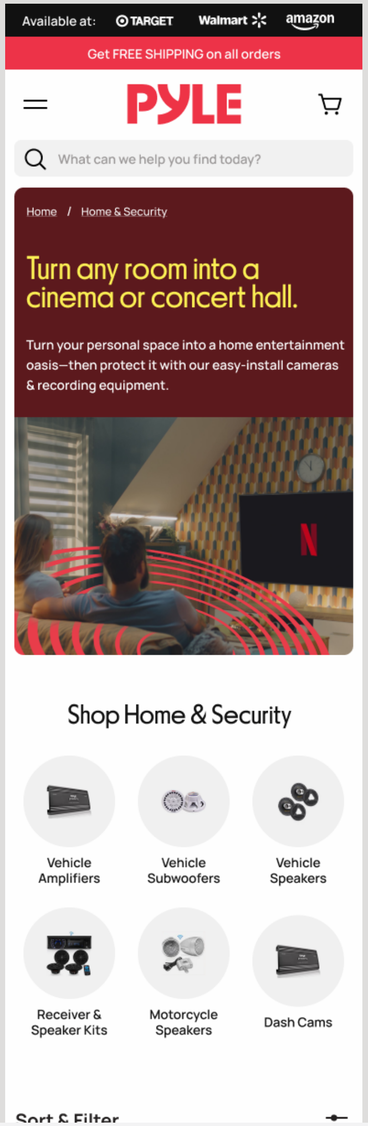
This is our front door. The homepage should instantly communicate who we are, what we offer, and why we're worth your time. It sets the tone—bold visuals, quick value, and just enough personality to make you want to scroll (or hit play).

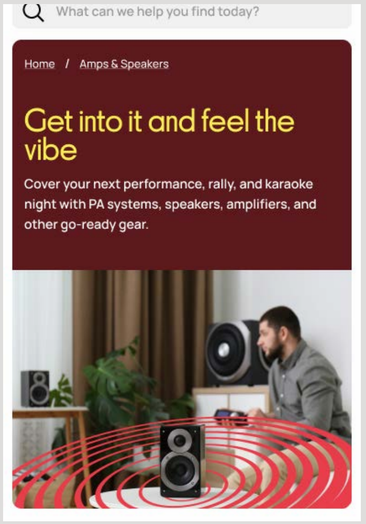


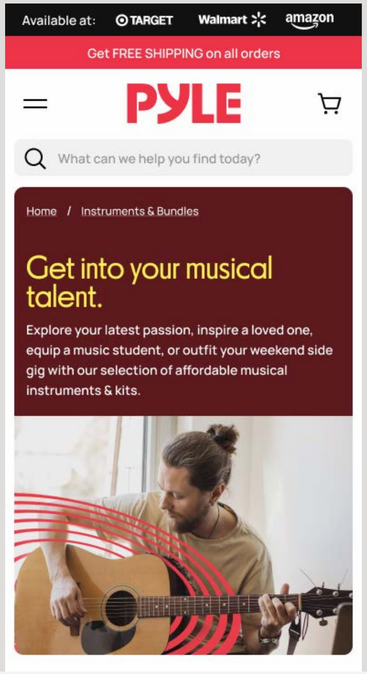
These pages help users explore by interest, not just item. Each one should guide visitors with clear organization, strong visuals, and helpful copy that makes it easy to browse, compare, and get into the gear that fits their vibe.











This is where curiosity turns into confidence. The PDP should answer questions fast, highlight key features clearly, and show the product in action. Every detail—photos, specs, reviews, and descriptions—should work together to help the customer say, “Yep, that’s the one.”

MEGAPHONE MASCOT

Meet our unofficial hype man. Max. The megaphone is more than a symbol—it's our personality, volume up. Whether it's shouting out a sale, cheering someone on, or just showing up for fun, the megaphone mascot brings energy, humor, and a wink of encouragement wherever it appears.

12

Max is our Megaphone Mascot. A character designed to embody the spirit of Pyle's audio innovation and community engagement.

Max serves as the voice of our brand, delivering helpful tooltips, inspiring quotes, and engaging content directly to our audience.

Use it sparingly, but strategically—on stickers, inserts, promo graphics, or surprise-and-delight moments. It's the brand's way of saying, "You've got this—and it's gonna be loud."

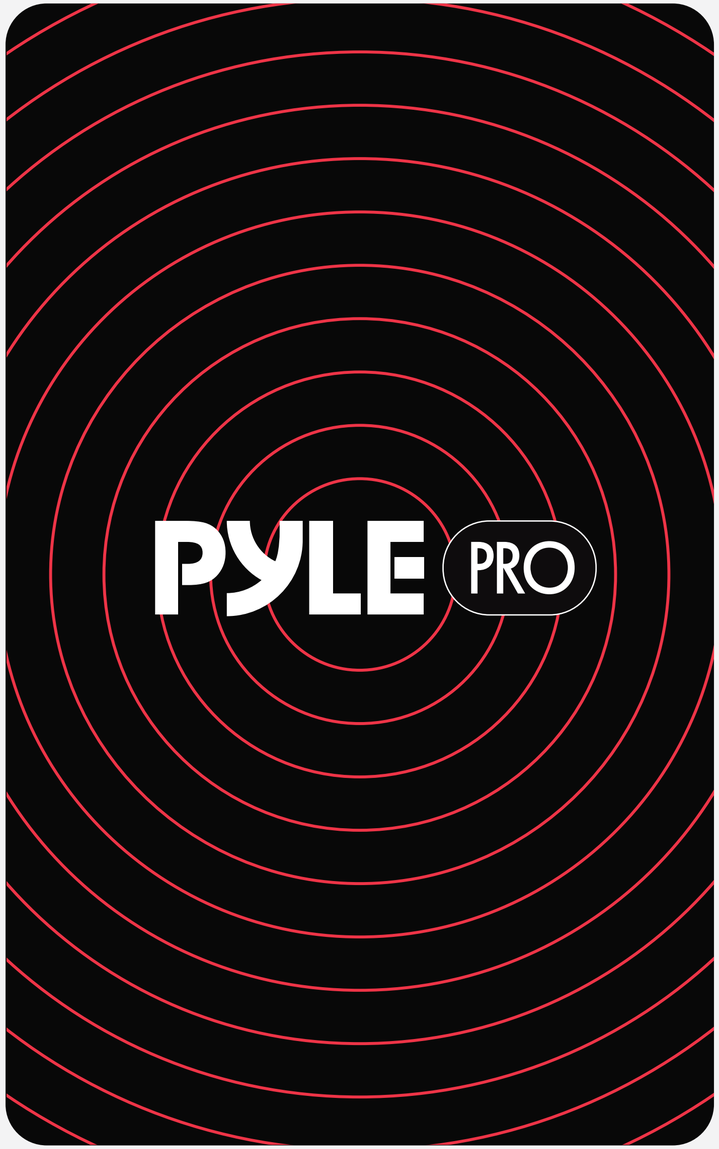
Sub-brands allow us to speak directly to niche communities or product categories, offering more focus, relevance, and flexibility—while leveraging the trust, reach, and reputation of the Pyle name.

Each sub-brand should:
- Have a clear reason to exist
- Speak to a defined audience
- Maintain a visual and verbal connection to the parent brand
- Offer something unique that Pyle alone can't fully capture

Sub-brands give us room to explore—without losing who we are.



Pyle Pro is a carefully considered sister brand to Pyle USA. Crafted to professional standards and built to meet the demands of performance, production, and reliability, it's made for those who need gear that shows up and holds up—without losing sight of value.

While Pyle USA is for everyday creators and hobbyists, Pyle Pro serves the semi-pro and working creative, offering more durability, precision, and specs that perform under pressure. Still accessible. Still powered by passion. Just tuned for a more serious stage.

Pyle Pro carries its own color palette and brand pattern, carefully differentiated but visually aligned with the parent brand. This ensures recognition and cohesion, while giving Pyle Pro the space to speak in a more technical, trusted, and focused voice.

It's Pyle—turned up a notch.

PYLE PRO

Pyle Pro packaging follows the same structural system as the main Pyle brand—clean layouts, modular sections, and clear callouts—but with a more elevated, professional tone.

The design leans into precision and performance, using sharper color, darker tones, and minimal accents that signal technical quality. The Pro pattern adds a thinner tline, giving the box a modern, confident presence.

Every element—from specs to imagery—should communicate reliability and professional-grade capability, while still remaining approachable and easy to understand.

Pyle Vintage looks back to move forward. It reimagines our classic designs through the lens of today—blending retro charm with modern functionality. With nods to analog warmth, bold typography, and timeless finishes, Pyle Vintage is made for those who want their gear to feel as good as it sounds.

Whether you're revisiting old memories or making new ones, this line taps into nostalgia without getting stuck in the past. It's familiar, stylish, and built to last—like your favorite record or a well-worn amp.

Pyle Vintage carries a distinct pattern and color system—softened, textured, and heritage-driven—but remains connected to the Pyle family in tone and intention. It's the story of where we came from—retold for right now.

Pyle Vintage packaging also builds on the same core packaging system as the parent brand—consistent layout zones, product highlights, and lifestyle messaging—while introducing a softer, heritage-inspired visual style.

The color palette includes warm neutral and a nostalgic tone, paired with the Vintage pattern, a retro rhythm that feels familiar but fresh.

Packaging should evoke a sense of storytelling and timelessness, showing the product in environments that blend old-school cool with everyday charm. It's designed to feel like a throwback—without feeling dated.
